

RNSG 1128 : Introduction to Health Care Concepts

An introduction to concept-based learning with emphasis on selected pathophysiological concepts with nursing applications. Concepts include acid-base balance, elimination, fluid and electrolytes, genetics, immunity, nursing applications. Concepts include acid-base balance, elimination, fluid and electrolytes, genetics, immunity, infection, inflammation, gas exchange, perfusion, and tissue integrity. Sixteen lecture hours per semester

Credits 1

Lecture Hours 1

Lab Hours 0

Clinical Hours 0

CIP

51.3801).

Prerequisites

Admission to the ADN program.